Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 10-16 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (e) as being anticipated by Yancho et al. (U.S. 6,179,849).

As to claim 1, Yancho et al show in figures 9, 10 and abstract, col. 5, lines 34-67, col. 6, lines 1-5, a method for grafting a graft vessel to a target vessel including an incision (100) in the target vessel (102); wherein placing incision tensioners (84, 86) within the incision in the target vessel (102) and tensioning the incision in the target vessel (102) with the incision tensioners (84, 86); and wherein grafting the graft vessel to the target vessel (102) while the incision (100) is tensioned. Furthermore, removing the incision tensioners (84,86) is from the incision after the grafting.

As to claims 10 and 11, Yancho et al show in figs 9 and 10, wherein the incision (100) is tensioned to a predetermined length which corresponds to a size of the graft vessel to be grafted to the target vessel (102); and wherein pulling the incision tensioners (84, 86) with a predetermined force.

Art Unit: 3731

As to claim 12, the method step, “the predetermined force...,” is not given any patentable weight since the step fails to recite any structure limitations. However, the Yencho device is capable of being predetermined force in the aforementioned manner.

As to claims 13 and 14, Yencho et al show in fig. 15 and col. 17, lines 1-35, wherein the incision tensioners are clips (142 is considered clips) which include a first tine (148) and a second tine (150); and wherein both the first tine (148) and the second tine (150) are configured to penetrate both the graft vessel and the target vessel (102).

As to claims 15-16 and 18, Yencho et al show in fig. 15, wherein both the first tine (148) and the second tine (150) capture the graft vessel and the target vessel (102); wherein both the first tine (148) and the second tine (150) are configured to fold over such that the first tine (148) and the second tine (150) capture the graft vessel and the target vessel (102); and wherein the tensioning of the incision (100) allows a geometry of the incision in the target vessel (102) to remain constant during the anastomosis procedure.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 07/24/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. With respect to claim 1, applicant indicates that none of the reference of Yencho '849 describes each element of claim 1. The examiner, respectfully, disagrees. The anastomosis device of the Yencho reference includes an incision (100) in the target vessel (102); wherein placing incision tensioners (84, 86) within the incision in the target vessel (102) and tensioning the incision in the target vessel (102) with the incision tensioners (84, 86); and wherein grafting the graft vessel to the target vessel (102) while the incision (100) is tensioned; wherein removing the incision tensioners (84,86) is from the incision after the grafting (Figs 9, 10).

Art Unit: 3731

Furthermore, the Yencho reference teaches an anastomosis device that is capable of removing from the incision in the target vessel (labeled in col. 2, lines 5-24, col. 5, lines 52-67 and col. 6, lines 1-5). Since the device of Yencho is capable of performing the same method steps as the applicant's device for grafting a graft vessel to a target vessel during an anastomosis procedure. Therefore, the claimed invention is not patentable over Yencho's preference.

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
